Christian Brothers High School

THE C.B.S. TRADITION

With innovations earmarking the educational field today, Christian Brothers has traditionally influenced the direction and scope of education in the Sacramento area. A new administration works imaginatively and forthrightly with the new mentality of today's youth, still stressing the values of their own humanity and Christianity. While many institutions find themselves caught in the turmoil of pointless change, Christian Brothers continues to challenge the minds of its students, not on mere issues of the day, but on the truths of human life that form the basis of day to day living. As the inexperience of youth tends to neglect these truths, laymen and Brothers energetically involve their students in a way that calls for the recognition of these concepts as necessary for the development of human behavior.

Such an approach has been one of the distinctive qualities of a Brothers' education. In Sacramento the Christian Brothers have successfully labored in this manner for the past century, evidenced in the community since they pioneered Catholic education here ninety-five years ago. In July of 1876, Christian Brothers was founded as an outgrowth of St. Rose's parish school, first called St. Patrick's by the pastor, Rev. Father Scanlon. Eventually the California province of the Christian Brothers accepted a new three story building at the corner of 12th and K Streets and the school assumed the name of Christian Brothers College.

Thus the influence of the Brothers flourished and pervaded the academic atmosphere of old Sacramento, becoming the city's first school to offer college courses. The community's recognition of scholastic excellence made it necessary to open a high school in new Mission styled buildings on 21st and Broadway. Enthusiastically, the Brothers moved into secondary education, provided a boarding department, and established the spirit of "CBS" as an integral and historical part of Sacramento.

Due to the pressures of space and change, property was purchased on Sacramento Boulevard, where a modern new campus thrives, still demanding the dedication to a Christian, intellectual life.

So it is that "CBS" continually renews itself as an educational influence on the Sacramento scene, adapting itself to recent recommendations of the Western Association of Secondary Schools, which gave Christian Brothers a full five year accreditation term.

With a large and involved alumni working with the laymen and Brothers, it is with pride, conviction and success that Christian Brothers looks forward to a second century of renewing its educational endeavors and athletic prowess in Sacramento.
