

GOLF

Another minor sport which has a grip on some of the students is the well-known sport—golf. A spirit of rivalry as to who was the best player of the school was worked up among the golfing enthusiasts. They determined to settle their argument at the William Land golf course. The cup was won by Charles Swanston with a score of 33 for nineteen holes. Bill and Tom Dwyer were close seconds with scores of 39. Bill Dwyer won the play-off. Approximately fifteen young players participated in the initial tournament which is to be an annual event.

—AMERICO ZAZZI, '27.

1927