Christian Brothers High School

109 years of
quality education,
serving the community
since 1876

Present Location Sacramento Boulevard

More than 300 years ago in Rheims, France, John Baptist de LaSalle founded the Brothers of the Christian Schools. In 1900 he was declared a saint in the Catholic Church. Today the Brothers are associated with a wide range of educational works and services beyond teaching in schools but it is their ministry of teaching that defines the mission of the brothers most fundamentally. There are approximately 10,000 Christian Brothers throughout the world.

Like every other Brothers school, Christian Brothers has a special concern for service to the poor. However, the school's concern for the poor is not limited to students who are economically disadvantaged; it extends as well to those who suffer a poverty of intellect, of talent, of affection or of faith. The school strives to awaken in each student a sense of Christian Brotherhood, so that his own life may be enriched with a positive attitude toward life, a conviction of the dignity of every person, and a sense of justice and service to others.

The Christian Brothers began their educational mission in Sacramento in 1876, when St. Patrick's Institute was dedicated at 12th and K streets. The site was sold to Weinstock's department store in 1923 and a new school was constructed at 21st and Broadway, where both resident and day students attended. Bishop Armstrong High School, located on Sacramento Boulevard, was opened in 1956 for junior and senior students from Christian Brothers, St. Joseph's Academy and St. Francis High School. This co-institution arrangement lasted until 1964 when the Christian Brothers bought the property on Sacramento Boulevard from the Diocese and it became, once again, an all boys high school. In 1968 it was renamed Christian Brothers High School. The Christian Brothers have served in the Diocese of Sacramento with 109 years of continuous educational service to young men in the Greater Sacramento area.
