INSIDE BASEBALL

Wally is almost afraid to sit down to dinner anymore.

He was eating when he learned he was traded to the Cards. He was at dinner when in '52, while in a restaurant, he found he was sent to the Indians.

Although Wally played only part time last season, he added to the reserve power that helped make the Indians the A.L. Pennant Winners. A National League veteran, Wally played with Pittsburgh for 4 years before seeing service with St. Louis and Cincinnati. In '52 he joined the Indians and in '53 he hit .330 in 82 games. Wally can break up a game with his timely hitting.
